Google Maps

Plus, Codes – Lat/Lon

Plus code is like a street address for people or places that don't have one. Plus Codes, or “Open Location Code”, is essentially a coordinate system.

You don't need a network connection: Plus codes work whether you are online or offline. Plus codes work in places that haven't been mapped. It can be used to pinpoint a location on the ocean or in the deepest uninhabited wilderness – as well as the house where you live. The “+” symbol in plus codes helps identify them for people and computers, ensuring Google Search and Google Maps recognize them. 76WW424M+3Q 28.105188, -81.965562
